

OPTIMAL CARE THROUGH INNOVATION

The Battle Creek Sanitarium offered patients the latest in technology, including the Universal Dynamometer invented by Dr. Kellogg to test the strength of his patient's muscles. Based on the same principle as blood-pressure machines, this instrument quickly became part of West Point Military Academy's fitness training program in the early 19th century.

Nº20

TIME CAPSULE

Legacy Series | AdventHealth